"FACTS AND FIGURES"

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY FOOTBALL

GENTLEMEN OF THE PRESS AND RADIO:

The 1942 edition of "Facts and Figures" is presented to you so that you might familiarize yourself and your readers and listeners with the University of Kentucky Wildcats.

"Facts and Figures" reports an accurate story of the football situation at the University of Kentucky. It was designed to inform sportswriters and radiocasters rather than to "blow up" the Wildcat eleven. It is merely the actual facts and figures of the coming season's team.

It has always been the sincere desire of the Athletic Department of the University of Kentucky that members of the press and radio be shown every possible courtesy when the 'Cats are at home or when they are on the road.

For future service from the UK Athletic Department concerning publicity, mats, pictures, statistics, and tickets, kindly address all communications to the Athletic Publicity Department, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky.

Your request will be answered immediately.

RECORDS OF THE BOARD OF THE MUSEUM

The Board of the Museum was organized in 1907, and its first meeting was held on January 15, 1907. The Board has since that time been the governing body of the Museum, and its records are of great importance.

The Board has been composed of a number of distinguished scholars and collectors, and its members have been instrumental in the development of the Museum's collections and its administrative affairs.

The Board has also been responsible for the financial management of the Museum, and its records provide a valuable record of the Museum's financial history.

The Board's records are a valuable source of information for the study of the history of the Museum and of the history of art in general.

These records are now being deposited in the University of Chicago Library.

Respectfully,
The Secretary of the Board

"FACTS AND FIGURES"

LOCATION:

A more desirous region could not have been found to locate a state university. Lexington is in the heart of the famed Kentucky Bluegrass, the center of America's thoroughbred horse breeding industry, home of Samuel Riddle's immortal Man o' War, who needs no identification, the scene of the world's largest burley tobacco auctions every fall, and the center of Kentucky's cultural and social life.

Included among points of interest in the Bluegrass is Colonel E. R. Bradley's picturesque Idle Hour Farm, breeding grounds for four Kentucky Derby winners.

The Coldstream Farm, Walnut Hall, Greentree, Spindletop, Dixiana, and Spendthrift are all within a few minutes' ride of the University campus.

TRANSPORTATION:

The metropolis of the Bluegrass is located on three major railroad lines--the Louisville and Nashville, the Southern, and the Chesapeake and Ohio. Bus lines radiate in all directions from Lexington.

ENROLLMENT:

Approximately four thousand students with about twice as many men as women.

FOUNDED:

The University of Kentucky, a co-educational state-maintained institution, was founded in 1878 as the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical College. From 1865 to 1878 it was a part of the Kentucky University--a combined state and church supported school. Kentucky University grew out of Transylvania University, now Transylvania College.

COLLEGES:

The University of Kentucky is divided into six colleges--Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Agriculture, Education, Commerce, Law, and the Graduate School.

ATHLETIC CONFERENCE:

The University is one of twelve members of the Southeastern Conference.

COLORS: Royal Blue and White.

"FACTS AND FIGURES"

PRESIDENT:

Dr. Herman Lee Donovan begins his second year as president of the University of Kentucky. The former head of the Eastern State Teachers College at Richmond was formally inaugurated with pomp and ceremony as the sixth president of the seventy-five year old institution last June.

Dr. Donovan in his short presidential reign has shown that he is a conservative pro-athletic president. Since he has been president, Dr. Donovan has attempted to procure a field house for the University. The building was being designed when the war intervened and delayed work on the proposed field house.

Dr. Donovan succeeds Dr. Frank L. McVey as president. Dr. McVey was retired upon reaching his seventieth birthday.

INFORMATION FOR THE PRESS:

Kentucky boasts of the most modern press box in the southeastern part of the United States. The glass-enclosed press box, located on the south side of Stoll Field, seats 100 newsmen. Two sound-proof radio booths are located at one end of the press box. Western Union and Postal Telegraph have direct wires in the press box, plugged in all along the first row. Paper, carbons, programs, and typewriters are available to members of the press. The Athletic Publicity Department operates a telegraphic correspondence service at all Kentucky games and will be glad to provide any desired coverage for any game, either at home or away. Working Press requests should be directed to the Athletic Publicity Department.

PERSONALITIES OF THE 1942 WILDCAT SQUAD

CENTERS:

CHARLEY BILL WALKER, will be rated the top spot at the pivot post... Made a letter last season, his sophomore year... Coach Kirwan ranks... Walker as the best center since he has been coach at Kentucky... He's from Corbin where they grow them big and mean, and Charley's a typical example... He plays football because he loves the game... He loves the rough going especially on the defense... Mark Walker down as the leading center in the South this fall... He weighs 200 and measures six two.

JAY RHODEMYRE, a sophomore with plenty of polish... Was an all-state center from Ashland... Although he weighs only 185, he's expected to push Walker plenty for a starting berth... Aggressiveness is Rhodemyre's by-word... He's another example of a boy playing football because he likes hard, rough fun... With Walker and Rhodemyre, Kirwan's worries at the center post have been dispelled for the season.

DICK WEBB, another sophomore pivot man... He's bigger than Rhodemyre, but lacks the polish and class... His father was an all-time center here at the University... Dick is a big boy, tipping the scales at 215 and stands six foot... If he works a few kinks out he's liable to push Rhodemyre for the second string post.

THE GUARDS:

RICH COLVIN, is one of two guards who earned a letter last fall to return... A quiet chap who performs his duties in a methodical fashion... He's a junior and weighs 200 even and stands six foot... Colvin carries his weight with speed to burn... Dependability marks Colvin... A good student.

NORMAN BECK, is the typical college football player... He's the kind of a kid who turns on every moment of the time that he is on the field regardless of whether he is playing with the first, second, or third stringers... A Louisville lad, Beck weighs 185 and measures six feet... Plenty of speed for a guard... A good down-field blocker... Besides playing football, Beck keeps himself busy in other campus activities... An athlete that is good on the field and good in the classroom... Mark Beck as a starter... He will be one of the boys that fill up the guard spot that resulted in so much trouble in the 1941 club.

BILL WELBORN, will see reserve duty... Has plenty of ambition, but lacks the weight to be a top flight starter... He saw action last season as a reserve man... Cool under fire... Signs Madisonville as his home town... He's a speedster.

JACK CASNER, will be in the fight for a starting berth...A great competitive athlete...Likes to play football---especially when the going gets on the rough side...Hails from Fort Thomas...A trim athlete, he weighs 190 pounds and measures six feet...Another combination of being a good athlete and a good student...One of the most popular boys on the club and campus...He's a potent blocker.

SHALLEY BROWNING, a sophomore from Montgomery, Ala., weighing 195, is potentially a good guard. He played a prominent role in the success of last season's freshman squad. He's big and fast enough to offer plenty of competition for a starting berth.

LEONARD PRESTON, another sophomore with a lot of power and drive... A Louisville lad, Preston weighs 195 and stands five eleven...If this boy lacks any natural ability he makes it up in determination...Another lad who wants to play football.

THE TACKLES:

CLYDE JOHNSON, or better known to his mates as "Big John", will be a leading tackle in the South this fall. "Big John" is the biggest man on the squad, standing six feet six and weighing 230. Last season he was recognized for his fine work...He hails from Ashland...Johnson and Clark Wood have the tackle situation well in hand...Despite his huge frame, John is very maneuverable...His long arms play a major part in the line's defense.

CLARK WOOD, is "Big John's" running mate..Clark weighs 205, but he's a streamlined athlete...The former Huntington high school star has been a leading tackle in the South for the past two years...Earned letters both his sophomore and junior years...One of the most popular men on the campus...Wood is the type of athlete who really goes in for hard playing...He's gunning for a spot on the all-southern eleven, and if past records indicate anything, then Wood will be one of the two best tackles in the South this fall...He's fast for a big man.

BILL GRIFFIN, will be number 3 tackle on the squad...He will probably alternate with Wood and Johnson...He hails from Mayfield...He's far from being a small man, weighing 225 and measuring six six...Mark this boy down as a comer...Turned in a splendid record as a freshman...He's not slow, either.

TED JARACZ, in all probability will be used as a reserve man...He's a sophomore from Lowell, Mass., and he weighs 205 and stands six three... With a little more polish, Jaracz might offer a lot of competition for a starter's berth.

THE ENDS:

CARL ALTHAUS is one of two lettermen returning to the flank spot... His specialty is grabbing pass from out of the heavens with his rangy six foot four inch frame... He's from Louisville, and he weighs 185... He will compete against Alan Parr for a starting berth.

CHARLEY EBLEN, might be a starter... Although he's a sophomore, he will give somebody plenty of competition before the starting line-up is determined... He stands an even six feet and weighs 185 pounds... Great as a pass receiver.

HARRY TAYLOR, is one of two lettermen returning to the flank spot... He weighs 200 and stands six feet even... Ranks high as a defensive end... Hails from Cynthiana... He will probably be one of the starters... His experience probably will be the deciding factor.

ALAN PARR, was a letterman last season... And probably will be again this season... Another Louisville boy... He stands six feet three inches and weighs 185 pounds... Takes on the appearance of a supernatural man when he's on the field with his special built helmet to protect his glasses... Alan is a better defensive player than offensive because of his eyes.

GEORGE SENGLE, is a little on the light side, but makes up for his lightness by being fast and hard...Mark this boy as a sixty minute fighter...Despite his lack of weight, George might be a starter...He stands only five eleven---rather small for an end...He is only nineteen years old.

THE QUARTERBACKS:

BEN KESSINGER, is one of three sophomore backs on the club...It's a toss who will win the starting berth, but if it takes fight and hard training, this lad is a certain starter...He weighs 175 and stands five eleven...Hails from Lexington...Ben is a hard driving blocker and plenty fast...Mark this lad because he'll see action.

TOMMY EWING, has the inside track for a starting post...But anything might happen in this race...He weighs 175 and stands six feet even and hails from Catlettsburg...He played on the Shriner's All-Star team three years ago...He's another lad who likes to play football.

MATT LAIR, is a quiet chap who speaks with action and not with words...Hails from nearby Paris where he starred in football and basketball...Lair is the smallest of the quarterbacks, weighing 175 and standing five ten...He'll see plenty of service and he might be a starter.

THE HALFBACKS:

CHARLEY KUHN, is rated highly by Coach Kirwan...He almost certainly will be a starter and an outstanding back this fall...He has a reservoir of natural ability...He stands six one and weighs 175...

Another Louisville product where he played at Male High School... He can kick, run, and pass...Mark this boy as one of the best backs in the South this fall.

JESSE TUNSTILL, was all-southern halfback for two years in high school and three times all-state halfback when he played at Tilghman High School in Paducah...He is plenty calm and knows how to handle himself on a football field...Also off of the field...Jesse is one of the greatest potential backs ever to enroll at the University of Kentucky...He's big and fast...Tilting the scales at 190 and stands six feet even...He is a passer, a runner, and a kicker.

GENE MEEKS, ranks with the best sophomores ever to come up at Kentucky...He forms the catching half of the Tunstill to Meeks passing combination...He was outstanding as a freshman last fall, and the coaches believe he will be outstanding as a sophomore this fall...Is wrestling champion of the University...He is from Lawrenceville, Ill...He weighs 180 and stands five eleven.

PHIL CUTCHIN, a letterman from last fall...He looks like a starter in August, but it will be a close race...One of the best kickers at Kentucky since Ralph Kercheval...He calls the play when he's on the field...Another triple threat back...He weighs 175 and stands six even.

RANDALL HAMMER, is an old fashioned hard driving halfback who hits like a locomotive...Nothing flashy, just a hard-hitter...He's a little light...Weighing 165...Hails from Tompkinsville...He's liable to fool someone and be a starter...He'll see plenty of action.

ERIC HOYER, was a quarterback last fall, but has been converted to a half for this season...Plenty fast and has a tricky pace...Weights 165 and stands five ten...Hails from Chicago.

THE FULLBACKS:

BOB HERBERT, is the only letterman returning to this position... He's rough- that's why they call him "Rough Robert"...He can back away and really smack a line with a wicked punch...He weighs 190 and stands five eleven...He hails from Fairmont, W. Va...Mark Bob down as one of the best in the South this fall if not the best.

JOHN HURST, was converted from a quarter to a halfback...He's a hard runner...If he could pick up ten pounds weight he might be a starter...Has a lot of natural ability, but he's a little on the light side, weighing only 180...He's from Evansville, Ind.

BILL MCSELEY, is one of the Alabama Moseleys and everybody in southern football has heard of the Alabama Moseleys...He's a sophomore who might go places before the season is over...He's only 18 years old...He weighs 175 and stands five ten.

PROSPECTS FOR '42

NOTE: Rather than present a press agent's story of the Wildcat prospects, we prefer to present two preview stories by two of Kentucky's leading sportswriters--Alex Bower, sports editor of the Lexington Leader, and Joe Reister of the Courier-Journal.

Here we go with Mr. Reister's story:

Lexington, Ky., August 8--The 1942 University of Kentucky football team will be a so-so aggregation wholly capable of terminating the season in one of two classifications--a better-than-average Wildcat eleven that played a consistently good brand of ball, or a team that proved itself mediocre in the fullest sense of the word.

And it's a 100-to-1 bet that no individual--at the present time--would venture to predict the bracket into which the Cats eventually might fall.

Head Coach Ab Kirwan, who has never been known to be optimistic concerning his gridiron clubs, sums up the whole thing in these words:

"We'll have a pretty good ball team this fall but our success will depend entirely on the caliber of our opposition.

"And our opposition appears at the moment to be anything but easy to handle."

Now everything is not gloomy around the Wildcat camp and two vivacious, dark-haired sophomore speedsters have a lot to do with dissipating what clouds may be in sight.

Gene Meeks and Jesse Tunstall--the two lads in question--are capable of doing most everything one could ask for on a football field and Kirwan's eyes twinkle noticeably when he talks about the pair of soph backs.

Meeks, who calls Lawrenceville, Ill., home, is a stoutly-constructed player, weighing 180 pounds and standing 5 feet, 11 inches in his stocking feet.

Tunstall, one of the best high school football players developed within the confines of the Commonwealth in many a moon, is speedy despite his 190 pounds. He stands approximately 6 feet tall.

Kirwan apparently will rely on Gene and Jesse to do a lot of ball-toting this fall and, in addition, to team up as an effective passing combination with Meeks pitching and Tunstall catching, or vice versa.

"Of course," Kirwan commented. "you must remember that both these boys are sophomores and consequently are untried in varsity competition. This fact may go against their play this year, but both are of good size, both have plenty of speed and the desire to play football and those are attributes you cannot discount entirely."

Expect Improvement At Guards

Ab will have a host of backfield material in Charley Kuhn, Meeks, Tunstall, Phil Cutchin, Randall Hammer, Tommy Bell, Paul Walker and Eric Hoyer at the halfback posts; Bob Herbert, John Hurst and Bill Moseley at the fullback positions, and Ben Kessinger, Tommy Ewing and Matt Lair at the signal-calling jobs.

As regards the linemen--the unsung heroes of a football team --Kirwan will have good centers in Charley Bill Walker, a letterman last year; Jay Rhodemyre, a husky from Ashland; Dick Webb, of Lexington, whose father, the late Dick Webb, was one of Kentucky's greats in the old days, and Pete Triplett, another Lexingtonian.

The guards, according to Kirwan, will be "greatly improved over those of last year".

The guards listed on the tentative Cat roster include Richard Colvin, Bardstown, and Norman Beck, Louisville, both lettermen; Bill Welborn, Madisonville; Jack Casner, Fort Thomas; Hurthel Jones, Corbin; Charles Browning, Montgomery, Ala., and Leonard Preston, Louisville.

Clyde "Big Stoop" Johnson, a 225-pounder, and Clark Wood, who tips the beams at 205, are the two returning lettermen at the tackle posts. Others listed are Bill Griffin, Mayfield; Ted Jaracz, Lowell, Mass.; Beryl McAllister, Somerset, and Milton Kafoglis, Lexington.

"We will be pretty thin at tackles," Kirwan said, "The boys we have are good, there is no doubt about that, but there are so few of them."

May be Weak at Ends

And there are the ends.

And therein lies the sad part of the advance story on the Wildcat gridiron possibilities.

Kirwan has two good ends in Carl Althaus and Alan Parr, both of Louisville, but others on the tentative squad listed at the end positions will have to show a lot of improvement to quicken Kirwan's pulse.

Among those lads who will attempt to snag passes and spill interference from outposts on the varsity this fall are Charley Eblen, Ashland; George Sengel, Louisville; Carl Dunning, Cincinnati; Charley Minor, Lexington; George Edwards, Harrodsburg; Bill Augustyn, Chicago, and Harry Taylor, Cynthiana, the third letterman on the list of ends.

Now Mr. Bower's story:

Like a 15-cent fillet of beef, it's tough at both ends and leathery in the middle, the 1942 University of Kentucky football schedule. In between the hard going, however, there's opportunity for juicy munching, so the Wildcats should finish the season minus not too many teeth.

Leading off the carte de pigskin, is a tussle with the University of Georgia's Orange Bowl champions, which is to say the Sinkwich Syndicate. After that come Xavier and Washington and Lee, which ought not to be unsurmountable, then follow Vanderbilt, V.P.I. and Alabama.

A pause for breath.

Vanderbilt, we all know is rough and ambitious. Remember? Virginia Poly's Gobblers want to grow into big birds; they may resist Alabama, reputed to be not so devastating as the Tides of former years, yet may cause the life rafts to be launched.

Following the Alabama heat come George Washington U., Georgia Tech, West Virginia and finally Tennessee, traditional windup foe.

The last time George Washington's gridders slept here it seemed as if the father of his country had adopted a section of the Foreign Legion, but the boys looked tougher than they really were. Maybe they'll have a hangover from that other licking.

Georgia Tech always is a worthy opponent, a good match for the Wildcats. West Virginia never has realized its potentialities; maybe the Mountaineers won't be too difficult this time either. Tennessee? Well, you know how the Vols are--they have the floors waxed or the skids greased every year.

Fifth Season For Kirwan

Head Coach Ab Kirwan probably will have a well-balanced club in this, his fifth season at the University. His personal slant is that the team ought to be "pretty good, better than last year."

He expects the outfit to open with plenty of the old zipper; later successes will depend on how the boys react to the rigors of the season. That first game, the one against Frankie and his friends will test the team severely. A solid stand in that heat, without too many casualties, would start the club off confidently.

Despite the loss of Noah Mullin and Ermal Allen, the back-field headliners of the last three seasons, Kirwan anticipates a stronger secondary this fall. Jesse Tunstill, Eugene Meeks, Ben Kessinger, Tom Ewing, Randall Hammer, Tommy Bell, Paul Walker and Bill Mosely, Z-clubbers or freshmen from last season, will add weight and punch to the lineup.

A sophomore named Bill Griffin will be hard to keep out of a tackle slot and Charlie Browning, a soph guard, figures to be busy. George Sengel and Harry Taylor are considered leading end prospects.

Bill Portwood's loss to the Army dented the Wildcats' flank. Besides the Midway end, George Schlegel, Bob Oenbrink and George Schiffler, who would have been eligibles this season, have been lost through sundry reasons.

Need Reserve Depth

Kirwan expects his first eleven to present a compact, capable front, but no special strength in the reserve ranks is in sight at present. Most of the boys have been occupied with hard work this summer. They are employed as icemen, surveyors, linemen construction hands, swimming instructors and so on. A few have been in summer school.

THE KENTUCKY COACHING STAFF

ALBERT DENNIS KIRWAN

The years one, two, three, and four have been torn from the calendar in methodical fashion for Ab Kirwan as head ringmaster of the Wildcats' football destiny.

Now number five--Kirwan's fifth year--appears upon the Kentucky football horizon, and what will happen during the fifth year of the Kirwan regime is just as much a mystery as the first four years. It is an unpredictable situation.

Albert Dennis Kirwan, known only as Ab to the football world, arrived back on the Kentucky situation in 1938, and with his coming came new hopes to a despaired football aggregation.

Kirwan had been graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1926--his name was not new on the Kentucky billboard.

Lanky Ab was graduated from Louisville Male High School in 1921. Starring Kirwan, Male went undefeated his senior year. Entering the University in 1922, Kirwan rated a starting berth with the Kittens, and with that berth went the title of captain.

Again, three years later, the title captain was applied before Kirwan's name when he was elected to captain the Wildcat eleven his senior year. As a varsity man, Kirwan alternated between the halfback and end posts, handling either position with equal skill.

Football was his major athletic interest, but track shared much of his time. As a member of the track team, Kirwan specialized in the 440-yard dash.

While still an undergraduate at the University, Kirwan served as assistant dean of men. Often he is referred to as "Scholarly Ab" a nickname he well deserves. Before a game, when other coaches are reading the sports pages, Ab prefers to read the classics--Shakespeare, Byron, Keats, Shelley, and others.

Kentucky in 1938 sent out a distress call. Discipline had ebbed to a low point at the University, and the football situation was bad--the future bore no signs of optimism. Kirwan, rather than look at the rational side--a comfortable law practise and a prospering high school team--chose the emotional side--the desire to be head coach at Kentucky.

And so Ab Kirwan came back to Kentucky, and with his presence came an air of confidence in the youthful mentor. He shook some of the bad apples from the tree, and shortly thereafter the football story became considerably brighter.

In four years Kirwan has brought Kentucky from the delves of the southern football coal hole to a team that demands respect. The chaff has now been separated from the wheat, and now the Kirwan machine starts into production.

That, in short, is the story of precise-speaking Ab Kirwan, who has in four years removed tarnish from Kentucky's football reputation.

BERNIE SHIVELY

From Illinois's fabulous line of footballers, comes Bernie A. Shively, familiarly called "Shive" by his associates. Shive is Director of Athletics and line coach. A native of Oliver, Ill., Shively shared the All-American spotlight with Harold "Red" Grange in 1926 when he was an All-American guard and Grange was the top back in the nation.

After receiving his Bachelor of Arts in Education, Shively came to the University of Kentucky in 1927 as a member of the physical education department. In 1933, when Kentucky had a periodical upheaval, Shive was promoted to head of the physical education department. Again in 1938, the Kentucky athletic volcano erupted and Shively was elevated to the post as Director of Athletics when Chet Wynne resigned.

RALPH McRIGHT

The newest addition to the Kentucky staff is a former Alabama star, playing on the 1930 Tide team that defeated Washington 24-0 in the Rose Bowl.

At 'Bama, Mac was a blocking back. Before coming to the University, McRight coached at Paducah's Tilghman High School, one of the strongest football schools in the South. While at Tilghman, McRight produced some of the strongest teams seen in Kentucky football circles. McRight will coach the Kittens this fall and handle the major portion of the scouting program. He is a native of Mount Hope, Ala.

GENE MYERS

Gene, a member of the University's ROTC staff, will help coach in an unofficial capacity. After he finishes his day's work as a First Lieutenant in Uncle Sam's army, Gene will spend his leisure time working with the Wildcats. Gene played on the 1937 Wildcat team. After his graduation he became an assistant coach, and survived the 1938 purge to continue as head Kitten coach. Myers is a native of Harlan.

the bad apples from the tree, and shortly thereafter the football story became considerably brighter.

ELMER GILB

Baldy, as he is known in coaching circles, is another UK graduate. This makes the second time that Baldy has been a coach at the University. After his graduation in 1928, Gilb remained at the University for three years as an end coach under Harry Gamage. While at the University he displayed great versatility, playing four positions in four years. His freshman year he was a tackle; his sophomore year he was an end; his junior year he was a blocking back, and his senior year he was a fullback. This fall he will handle the ends.

Gilb holds an A.B. degree from the Commerce College of the University and a Masters in Physical Education. He is married and has one child, a daughter.
